The things every child with autism wishes you knew

It is a personalized viewpoint from a mother who has worked her way through this with her own child, and the things she learned that can apply to your child (and you) as well.

*Specific* strategies come from therapy, as every child is different, and will need slightly different guidance and help.

Every child will be at a different point on the spectrum.

And, just as importantly – every parent, teacher and caregiver will be at a different point on the spectrum.

Child or adult, each will have a unique set of needs. Here are ten things every child with autism wishes you knew:

1. I am first and foremost a child. I have autism.
